THE HOLY FAMILY

Dedication

In loving gratitude we, the members of the Class of 1953, dedicate to you, our dear parents, this yearbook. By your love and understanding, your self-sacrifice and encouragement, you too have shared in our life at the Mount and have lived our story with us. The glorious example of the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary and Joseph has inspired you to guide us along the road of life. May we prove ourselves worthy of your efforts and your long-cherished hopes.

Foreword

The rose, throughout the ages, has been a symbol of love. Just as Dante, in the Paradiso of The Divine Comedy, used this flower to represent the love of the faithful in Paradise, so for us in this yearbook, it symbolizes the love and union which exists between all who are seeking the true end of Christian education. The flowering of our rose is comparable to the development of a student through her years of training. In its maturity this symbolic rose is the fullness of life which comes to those who have received the advantages of Mount Saint Agnes College. Our union with one another in God is the perfect fruition of the student's education at the Mount even as it was the fruit of contemplation in Dante's Comedy.

FRANCES MARIANNE BERAN

Bachelor of Arts

Chemistry

"Frannie," as she is called by her friends, is well-known for her willingness and eagerness to assist everyone whenever the slightest need occurs. Her virtue of dependability and her desire to put things "over the top" have been invaluable to her this year as she assumed the duty of Business Manager of the 1953 Mercedian. As an active participant in the Science Club, the Sodality, the Mercedian staff and various other campus organizations, "Frannie" has done her utmost to promote the interests of these clubs. In her studies, she is an unusually attentive and conscientious worker. Untiring zeal and an ingenious gift of producing a scheme for fund raising when the necessity arises, together with her cooperativeness in business projects, should enable "Frannie" to meet the challenge of the future with confidence.

VIRGINIA LEE BONELLI

Bachelor of Science

Medical Technology

Who would suspect that behind "Ginny's" dreamy eyes and nonchalant air is hidden a penetrating interest in science and an untiring zeal in performing the various experimental tasks required in the daily routine of a medical technologist? Carefully concealed also, until the proper moment presents itself, is a keen and subtle sense of humor which enables her to participate with enjoyment and enthusiasm in many college and class functions. As Vice-prefect of the Sodality in her Sophomore year, "Ginny" gave much of her time and energy to the furtherance of the organization's activities. In the fulfillment of her duties as Vice-president of her class in her Junior year, she proved herself a loyal and capable member of the class of 1953. "Ginny's" quiet manner as well as her aptitude for laboratory work will make her a welcome technologist in any hospital or doctor's office.

MARGARET ANN COOK

Bachelor of Arts

English

"Margie," first lady of the Mount, has been, as President of the Student Government Organization, an inspiration to all of us. Behind her cheerful countenance lies a deep religious faith which is the foundation stone of her philosophy of life. The possessor of a vivacious personality and charming wit, "Margie" is an understanding and sympathetic friend to whom we can turn in time of need. She was the efficient President of her Junior Class. For three years she displayed an active interest in campus organizations and a growing interest in the NFCCS which has now found an enthusiastic and loyal supporter. Elected to Who's Who in her Senior year, "Margie's" leadership, her cooperative spirit, and her scholastic attainments have been given just recognition. Whether on or off campus, "Margie" can be depended upon to show those characteristics which will always identify her as a true Catholic woman.

JOAN DAILY CORCORAN

Bachelor of Science

Nursing

Cheerfulness and vivacity characterize "Joanie", who entered our ranks from the nursing profession in our Junior year. She has endeared herself to us by her friendliness, personal interest, and cooperation in all our endeavors. Her leadership and her deep love of Our Lady have made her the succesful Prefect of the Sodality for the past two years. Always ready and eager to further the cause of the Sodality, "Joanie" has fulfilled her duties with merit. Whether on the basketball court or in a scientific discussion, she is at ease. Undaunted by difficulties, "Joanie's" enthusiasm carries her through. The sympathetic understanding which we have received and the sunny disposition which she has manifested will make "Joanie" an excellent asset to any sick room. Deep appreciation of the opportunity which is hers insures success and happiness to Joan in her chosen life.

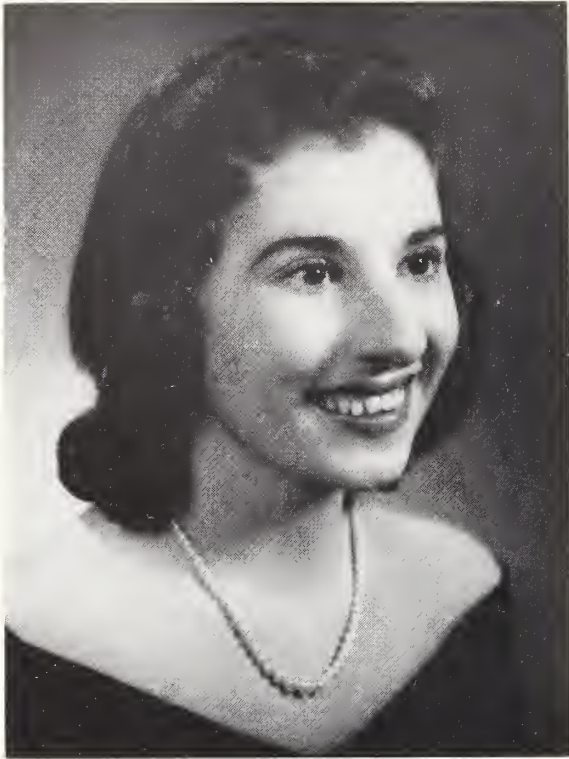

JOAN GLORIA CUTELLUCCI

*Bachelor of Science
Medical Technology*

Of Joan it can truly be said, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Always eager to relieve a difficult situation, Joan is a loved and treasured member of the class of '53. Her naturally cheerful disposition has carried her over many a hurdle in her college career. As a member of the Sodality and the Science Club, Joan has shown interest in co-curricular activities. The reliability and dependability which she manifested as Secretary-Treasurer of the class for three years will prove valuable assets in recommending her for any task in medical technology. Enduring loyalty, generosity to all, and devotion to principle are enviable traits which Joan possesses. After a short career, Joan plans to adopt the duties of a homemaker. Whether manager of a laboratory or mistress of a home, her influence will be felt and will bring joy to many hearts.

REGINA THERESA DE HARDIT

Bachelor of Arts

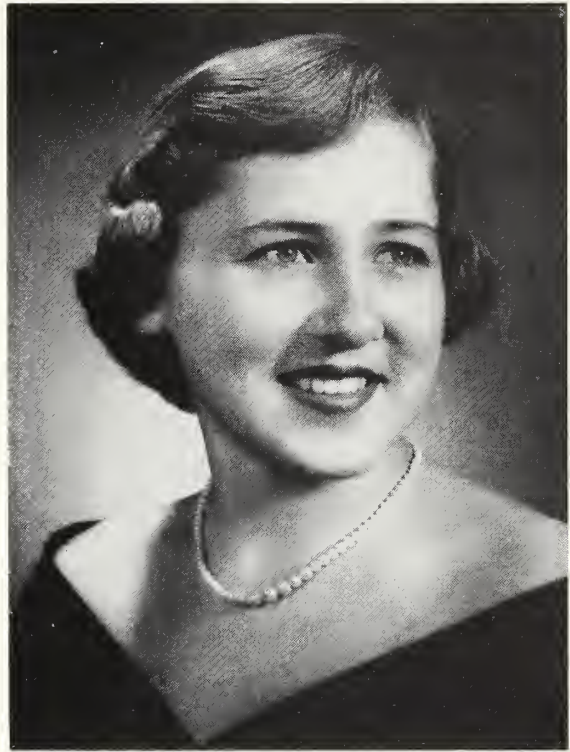

Elementary Education

"Gina," the essence of fun and frolic, is gifted with a deep understanding of human nature and a sincere and trusting regard for everyone. Her spirit of friendly cooperation is always noticeable and her thoughtful consideration of others makes her loved by all. As President of the International Relations Club in her Junior year, "Gina" has received leadership experience. She has also been a member of the Glee Club, Science Club, Humanities Club, and Athletic Association during her college years. Interested in her work and sincere in her desire to succeed, "Gina" has an infectious zest for life which is most necessary in the teaching career she plans to enter. The children who are her pupils will each receive her undivided attention; they will imbibe her spirit and joy will prevail among them.

GERALDINE M. DOBRZYKOWSKI

*Bachelor of Science
Medical Technology*

Excelling in both scholastic and co-curricular activities, "Gerry" has been acclaimed a member of Who's Who. Athletic prowess, leadership qualities, and precision and accuracy in laboratory techniques, together with dramatic ability have made her renowned as a medical technology student, as President of the Athletic Association, and as a talented portrayer of character roles on the stage. "Gerry's" interest in NFCCS and her enthusiasm as our Junior Delegate have made her name known on other Catholic college campuses. Although off campus during much of her Senior year because of her training at Mercy Hospital, "Gerry" has kept alive her interest in all college events. An infectious enthusiasm and joy, based on a deep-seated sense of loyalty and appreciation for true values, will enable "Gerry" to take her place in the world and to exert on those whom she meets the influence of a Catholic woman.

JOANNE MARY DUFFY

Bachelor of Science

Nursing

Though at Mercy Hospital completing her nursing program these last three years, Joanne is remembered at the Mount for her sincerity and her determination of purpose. Always desirous for the nursing profession, Joanne successfully overcame one obstacle after another in accomplishing her goal. At college Joanne was active in the Glee Club, Science Club, and Sodality, while at the hospital she aided in the publication of Scope, the monthly magazine issued by the Hospital. The Student Nurses' Council of Maryland elected her corresponding secretary and the Hospital chose her as one of the representatives to the American Nurses' Convention at Atlantic City. Gifted with a quiet and unassuming manner as well as with a sympathetic nature based on a deep faith in God, Joanne's presence in a hospital and a sick room will help to restore faith and hope to the hearts of many patients.

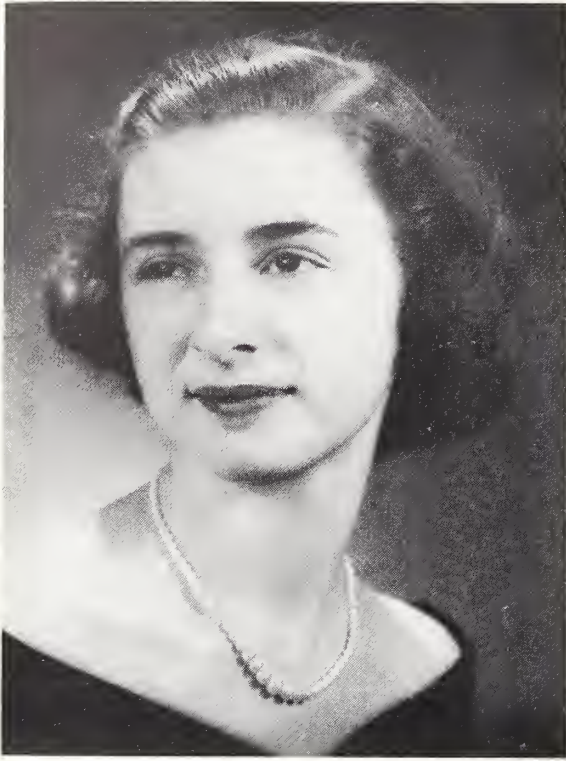

ELLEN PATRICIA FOGARTY

*Bachelor of Science
Medical Technology*

"Pat," with her jet black hair and dark eyes, is our shining example of an Irish colleen. Her "devilish" sense of humor is a constant source of amazement and enjoyment to her fellow classmates. Always fastidious in dress and orderly and accurate in her work, "Pat" will be welcomed in any doctor's office or hospital laboratory. She has been active in events at the College as well as at the Hospital. Because of her poise and self-assurance she has been successful in displaying her talent on the stage in many productions of the Mount Thespians. As captain of the student Medical Technology bowling team at Mersey Hospital, "Pat" has led her teammates to victory on many occasions with her enthusiastic encouragement and excellent bowling. With her capabilities and leadership qualities "Pat" should be most successful and should contribute much to her chosen field of work.

ANN REEDER FOWLER

Bachelor of Science

Nursing

Ann, an attractive brunette, has been completing her nurses' training course these last three years at Mercy Hospital where she has exhibited the same interest in her work and extra-curricular activities which made her, while in college, a most dependable member of the College Glee Club, Science Club, and Sodality. At the Hospital she has been an enthusiastic member of the staff of Scope and recently she has utilized her talent for writing by contributing to the Yearbook of the School of Nursing in its initial venture. Ann has always been recognized for her mild and gentle disposition and for her desire to be helpful. With these qualities and the love of nursing which is hers, she, because of her desire to help suffering humanity, will be able to manifest the true spirit of mercy and to bring peace to any patient she may nurse.

JEAN KATHLEEN LAWLER

Bachelor of Arts

Social Science

Jean, the Lily Pons of the class of '53, is gifted with a lovely lyric-soprano voice which has entertained Glee Club audiences in group and solo performances over a period of four years. Naturally loquacious, Jean keeps her friends "on their toes" trying to follow her rapid "line" of chatter and jokes. In her Junior year Jean's efficiency as S.G.O. Secretary merited for her the confidence of the students who later elected her Vice-president of the same organization. Vitally interested in NFCCS, Jean, our Senior Delegate, was elected corresponding secretary of the regional division and so has obtained a seat on the regional council. The experience in leadership which Jean has acquired during her college years, together with her efficiency and ability to work with people, will be very helpful to her as she seeks to spread Christian principles to the world in which she lives.

ALICE JANE RAMSAY

Bachelor of Arts

Social Science

Alice, with her smiling blue eyes and sisterly interest in all, has a special place in the hearts of many at the Mount. No doubt her kindness and sincerity were factors considered as she was voted "Sno-Queen of '53". Although Alice appears quiet and demure, frequently she surprises her friends with her vivacity and readiness for fun. During her four years in college she has repeatedly shown her willingness to cooperate and assume responsibility. As President of the Senior Class and Photography Editor of the 1953 Merecdian, her fidelity to duty has been outstanding. Alice's diversified interests have been manifested by her membership in the Humanities, Science, and Secretarial Clubs as well as in the Athletic Association. As Alice leaves the Mount, well-equipped to take her place in her chosen field of endeavor, may her endearing loyalty continue to flourish and gain for her much success and happiness.

ANNE CULLEN ROGERS

*Bachelor of Science
Medical Technology*

Tall and stately and always neat in appearance, Anne has an ease and a grace that enables her to cope with any situation. Never at a loss for words, she is as much at home in a social gathering as in the science laboratory. As chairman of the 1952 Sno-Ball, Ann guided it to a financial and social success. She, in turn, became a charming princess of the Sno-Queen's court. Her horizon broadened as she accepted the responsibilities of Delegate to the National Student Association. By this office Anne made contacts on other college campuses. Always interested in the College Science Club, she prepared to enter the professional field. Her long-standing desire for hospital work has finally been realized since she now spends many of her school days at Mercy Hospital. Anne's calmness and gentleness will win her many friends and will be assets to her in any laboratory.

AVIS EARLE SELBY

Bachelor of Arts

Education

Avis, whose crowning glory is the envy of all, is our piano virtuoso. She has accompanied the Glee Club on many occasions and was its efficient President during her Junior year. Many events in the auditorium have been enhanced by her musical prowess. As President of the International Relations Club, Avis has ably represented the college at several meetings and in discussion groups at conventions and congresses, displaying both poise and dependability. Besides membership in the above clubs, Avis' name appears on the rostra of the Humanities and Education Clubs. Especially interested in education, Avis will use her calm and determined disposition as well as her conscientious and cooperative spirit in guiding the children under her care. She is blessed with an unassuming and gracious manner, as well as a subtle wit, and happiness will accompany her into her classroom or home.

DORIS JOAN STOLZE

Bachelor of Arts

Chemistry

Doris, who is a chemistry major, centers her interest in the laboratory and Science Club. She has conscientiously spent many long hours on one experiment or another. As former Secretary and present President of the Science Club she has been efficient and enthusiastic in the duties entrusted to her. Although an individualist, Doris is always ready to join in the fun and spirit of varied campus activities. She has represented the Dramatic Club and the Athletic Association on different occasions. The class made her its Vice-president in her Senior year and the Mercedian has profited by her help as Assistant Editor. Amiability has made Doris a confidant of her classmates. Her even disposition, frankness and stability will make Doris an invaluable member in any civilian or service laboratory.

MARLENE LOUISE WHELAN

Bachelor of Arts

Elementary Education

Where there are children, there is Marlene. Her enthusiasm for teaching and her genuine love for children will make her an ideal teacher and a credit to her chosen profession. She is known for her friendly and cooperative spirit. No athletic event is complete without the ardent support of our cheerleaders whom Marlene has ably captained during her four years at the Mount. She has been an active member of the Science Club, the Secretarial Club, and the Education Club. As a member of the Resident Council for two successive years and Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior Class, Marlene has proved her leadership ability. Through her understanding of other people, Marlene has found many friends during her college years. Her cheery smile will be missed and for a long time her friendly "hello" will ring through the halls of the Mount.

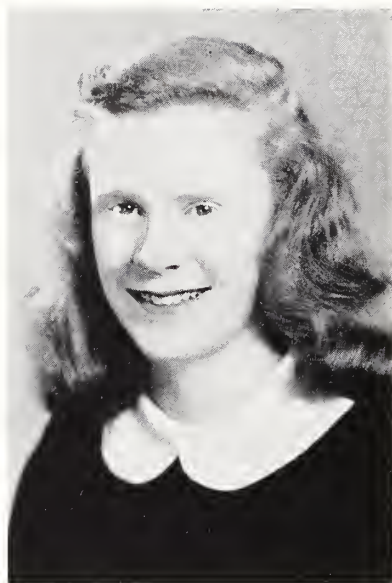

ELIZABETH CLAIRE WIXON

Bachelor of Arts

English

Although seemingly shy and reticent, Claire is nevertheless quite capable of expressing herself in any controversy. This she has done on many occasions in the I.R.C. During her four years in college, she has had opportunity to prove her cooperative spirit and efficiency. As Editor-in-Chief of the 1953 Mercedian, she has cheerfully carried the responsibility for the success of the yearbook. Her dependability and willingness to work have been proven in this venture. Her literary ability has won for her the Editorship of Spheres and an active participation in its publication. Claire has been at different times President and Secretary of the Humanities Club and Secretary of the Secretarial Club. A campus function is not complete without her presence. Considering her literary and secretarial abilities, as well as her gracious smiling manner and Christian ideals, Claire will be a worthy representative of her Alma Mater under any circumstances.

Class History

"Just four years ago we Seniors started our show." Now it is time to reminisce and recall the fun of dances, socials, sports and the achievements of our more serious scholastic and spiritual endeavors.

"Can't you see the Freshmen with their timid stares?" How well these words described us in 1949 when our "Big Sisters," the Sophomores, introduced us to the traditions of the Mount through an orientation week which included an initiation party at which we were known as "Broomsticks" and an investiture ceremony at which we received our caps and gowns. The Harvest Barn Dance helped us to relax after that tense first quarter during which we were striving to learn how to study on the college level. Then came the Thanksgiving Bazaar at which we served the dinners and bought our Christmas gifts. The exciting Christmas season rushed in upon us with the Glee Club concert and the Christmas party. Shortly after mid-year examinations we attended the Sno-Ball, our first college formal, and we were thrilled to see one of our class chosen for the court of the Sno-Queen. In May the graduation activities for the Seniors consumed our interest. Our part was the Freshmen-Senior picnic which was accompanied by beautiful weather and good sportsmanship to cheer us on to success. Finally, a big event for us arrived—the Class Day song competition. That day every girl sang her best the lovely words our faithful members had written and much to our great happiness we won the Class Day Banner. Graduation exercises closed this first memorable year at the Mount.

During the following year we, as Sophomores, acted as "Big Sisters" to the incoming Freshmen. The Bazaar, Glee Club concert at Christmas, the Sno-Ball, and the annual play brightened our winter activities. Graduate Records in March frightened us but we came through with no noticable scars. The A. A. Banquet at the Park Plaza Hotel terminated the athletic activities for the year. With the Candlelight Night play and refreshments we paid our last tribute to the Seniors. At the Sophomore Banquet, sponsored by the class, we reminisced and formed an Off-Campus Club that we might keep in touch with those of the class who were not returning in the fall. Again on Class Day we made our bid for the Banner and to our great joy we won. That night the Senior Prom was held at the Alcazar. On graduation day thirty-two members of the class received their Associate of Arts degrees. We said our final good-byes to those of our classmates who had terminated their college education and proceeded to our summer vacation.

A few weeks—and we were back with seventeen Junior members—ten on campus and five medical technology students who spent two days a week at the hospital and two nursing students who had no work at the Mount. Several Juniors were in the One-Act play series held in December and others found their place on the court of the Sno-Queen in February. In the spring the Junior Class presented the Seniors with a forsythia bush as part of the traditional Tree Planting ceremony. After the A. A. Banquet came the Junior-Senior Banquet at the Marling House. Here we prophesied for the Seniors and they in turn left us their Last Will and Testament. The Senior Prom, held at school, was the crowning social function of this most eventful year. At last Class Day, though only seventeen in number, we were big in spirit, singing with all our might. While waiting for the verdict of the judges, we were a nervous group but upon hearing that for the third time we had won the Banner, we were jubilant and so proud of the Banner and of the girls of the Class of '53. It was on graduation day that we came to the full realization that now we were Seniors.

"Now you see Seniors with a distinguished air." Seniors! How those college days had flown. Three wonderful and memorable years were over and here we were the leaders of the school. The first event of the year was the Alumnae Tea for the Seniors closely followed by the annual middie dance, the freshmen initiation, the Barn Dance, the Bazaar, and the Christmas party. Following examinations and the Sno-Ball, we looked forbodingly to those Graduate Records again. They were overpowering but soon a thing of the past. After the Easter vacation Senior activities started up in full swing. As April drew to a close, we reaped benefits from our Senior Retreat conducted by Rev. Walter J. Burghardt. Each girl gave her all to this last retreat of our college days. The first weekend in May featured not only a surprise bridal shower for a classmate, but also the delightfully entertaining evening known as Sophomore-Senior Candlelight Night. The Sophomore's program, entitled "The SSMSA", accurately depicted the Seniors as the underclassmen saw them. Following the entertainment, both classes garbed in traditional cap and gown, toured the campus bidding farewell to well-loved spots. At the informal Freshmen-Senior picnic, taking place on the terraces, the Seniors showed the Freshmen there was life in them yet (we won the baseball game).

The next event was the annual Tree Planting ceremony at which the Juniors planted a bush in memory of the Class of '53. That evening, the widely popular Athletic Association Banquet was held at the Stafford Hotel. Following the entertainment, awards were presented to deserving athletes.

The following week produced headaches and the other usual symptoms preceding Comprehensives. However, the Liberal Arts students managed to do justice to their exams. In the meantime, the Med Techs had taken their laboratory exams and were enjoying the Hospital's Banquet given in their honor.

The fourth Sunday in May, the Class attended Mass in the Cathedral sponsored by the International Association of Catholic Alumni. The final week of school found the Class attending another bridal shower and a picnic at Cape St. Claire.

The Junior-Senior Banquet, the night before Class Day, was the closing tribute of the underclassmen to the Seniors. The Juniors presented us with rose-colored glasses through which to view the world. The long-awaited prophecies and the Last Will and Testament together with the faculty's rendition of "How Much is that Doggie in the Window" served to make a most memorable evening.

May twenty-ninth dawned sunny and cool. Class Day was upon us and nervous Seniors, attired in lovely pastel gowns, took their places on the lawn. We were proud of our classmates who received awards and of those who made the major addresses. After the presentation of our hoods and the Song Contest, a reception was held in the lounge for the Seniors and their guests. The Senior Prom that night, at the Southern Hotel, was a joyous occasion and also a sad one, as we realized this was our last college prom. On Baccalaureate Day we entered the chapel for the last time as students. Following Mass, at which Father Duggan was the celebrant and Father Weigel the speaker, a luncheon was held for the Seniors and their relatives. "And on Sunday you'll go on the stage. At the sound of your name, your degree will be given to you and farewells will be said to the Mount and the garnet and blue." (Quotations from the Class Day Song of 1952.)

Student Council

The Student Council, through a faculty adviser, works in harmony with the Administration of the College on all matters pertaining to the good of the student in the disciplinary and social realm. Legislative changes in procedures are prudently considered and made as needed to meet the changing needs of the student body. Infractions of rules are judged and fitting penalties prescribed as circumstances determine. Petitions regarding academic life may be presented to the Administration and if the requests are at all feasible and possible they are favorably received. A distinct part of the Student Council is the Resident Council which controls the disciplinary and social life of the resident students. The members of the Council, because of their ability to see the mind of the Administration on controversial matters, have acquired a broader and much more mature outlook on students' affairs which enables them to rule more intelligently.

NFCCS

Mount Saint Agnes College was honored this year by being selected to act as host college of the Baltimore-Washington region for the Regional Congress of the NFCCS. As part of the program Mount Saint Agnes presented a Liturgy panel and a Student Government panel since both commissions are held by the College. The Liturgy Commission besides regularly editing Crossbeams presented a Liturgy Day in January which member schools of the NFCCS attended. The Student Government Commission has organized a committee which meets frequently to discuss different phases of student government. In addition to these meetings, the Commission edits a newsletter which has been sent to the other schools of the region. Catholic University acted as host for the Student Government workshop in April. The Mount was also this year the seat of an IRC Commission meeting. NFCCS has afforded invaluable experience in leadership to those students who have actively participated in it.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary

The Mount Sodality is one of the most active campus organizations. It officially opened its 1952-53 season with a Mercy Day program at which all made an act of consecration to Our Lady. During the first part of the school year probation classes were held for those who were desirous of becoming Sodalists. On February 2nd, these students were invested at a special ceremony. The corporal works of mercy were practiced in reality, for during the holiday season the Sodality sponsored a drive for food and clothing for poor families. March 17th was an important date on the calendar. Irish tunes furnished entertainment at the Little Sisters of the Poor and small gifts helped to revivify the spirit of Saint Patrick among the old people. A communion breakfast concluded the year's program but the spiritual benefits derived from devotion to Our Lady will remain with us always.

Liturgy Club

The Liturgy Club proposes to awaken a vital interest on the part of the student in spiritual realities. It sponsors a weekly dialogue Mass and a monthly day of Adoration as well as seasonal devotions. Mount Saint Agnes holds the chairmanship of the regional Liturgy Commission of the National Federation of Catholic College Students. By means of a bulletin, Crossbeams, the commission tries to unite local colleges in an effort to make the liturgy better known and loved. This year's Liturgy Day, held at the College, was devoted to the Mass in the Byzantine Rite, celebrated by Rev. F. Wilcock, S. J., and to two talks on Christian liturgical life by Rev. Eugene Walsh, S.S. and Dr. Evelyn Eaton. At the regional congress in March, Mount Saint Agnes conducted a successful panel on the "Holy Saturday Liturgy" which was followed by a lively discussion on the new Easter vigil.

International Relations Club

Under the auspices of the NFCCS, the IRC on campus enjoys an enthusiastic and integrated curriculum. At semi-monthly meetings the girls discuss current topics and prepare themselves to participate with intelligence in inter-campus meetings. Such meetings were held this year at Notre Dame College, Georgetown University and Mount Saint Agnes College where the following topics were discussed: The German Political Problem, the Far East situation, and Collective Security. Two delegates, Avis Selby and Josepha Caraher, represented the Mount at the Middle Atlantic Regional Meeting held this year at the University of Pennsylvania. Prominent speakers addressed the members of the region on the general topic "Is America Losing Her Friends?" The knowledge of world affairs and the experience gained from discussing current problems from a Christian and ethical standpoint make membership in the IRC an invaluable asset to the education of a Catholic College woman.

Humanities Club

During the four meetings of the 1952-53 school year, the Humanities Club has emphasized various aspects of the Fine Arts, thereby introducing several new and interesting personalities to the students. Mrs. Buchner presented a delightfully informal talk describing her recent European tour. Featured at one of the meetings was a color movie depicting Rubens as a Baroque artist and displaying the tensions prevalent at that time as seen in his paintings. In the spring the Club had as its guest speaker Mr. Richard Hart, director of the Language and Literature Department of the Enoch-Pratt Library. Mr. Hart, responsible for the series of lectures "Afternoons with the Poets" in which several of the Mount instructors have participated, told the girls how Baltimore groups have fostered and nourished legitimate drama and how they have contributed to the "Grassroots Theater in America." Our appreciation of painting, architecture, and drama has increased considerably because of these Club meetings.

Science Club

The programs of the Science Club are arranged to further scientific information in the light of Catholic thought, to develop the scientific attitude, and to bring members of the club in contact with persons already in the field of science. A guest at one meeting of the club this school year was Dr. Ralph Sturm, Professor of Physics at Johns Hopkins University Medical School, who spoke on the relationship of the laws of physics to medicine. At another meeting the Senior Medical Technology students demonstrated and explained various routine tests that are performed at the Clinical Laboratory at Mercy Hospital. As part of the agenda of the same meeting, they described the different departments of the laboratory and the duties necessary for the proper functioning of each department. At the final meeting of the year, the Senior Liberal Arts science majors presented reports on their required laboratory projects.

Education Club

The Education Club provides an opportunity for students at Mount Saint Agnes, who are prospective teachers, to discuss informally matters relating to the theory and methods applicable in the teaching profession. Discussions with former members of the club who are now teaching in various school systems have proved especially informative and advantageous. In March of this year, the Club was fortunate in hearing from Mr. Kenneth Horwath and Mrs. Ruth Richards both of the Personnel Department of the Baltimore Department of Education. Dr. John M. Stevens, Professor of Education at Johns Hopkins University also addressed the students concerning jobs outside the teaching profession such as opportunities for visiting teachers, counselors and research workers. The observations made here and at public schools stimulated the student's zeal for the practice teaching during their Senior year and for the teaching profession after graduation.

Philosophy Club

Philosophy is a most important part of the academic life of a student at the Mount. Realizing the need for correct philosophic thinking, the students eagerly take part in such discussions when the opportunity arises. To supplement the classroom discussions, the Philosophy Club aims to satisfy the desires of those whose intellectual curiosity goes beyond the formal class. At the Club meetings this year roundtable discussions were held to discuss books such as The Universe and Dr. Einstein by Lincoln Barnett. Students and faculty alike participated and all the students benefitted by the philosophic thinking of the faculty members. At present the Club attracts mostly upper classmen who have acquired much philosophic knowledge, and it is hoped that the members of the lower classes will soon add the Philosophy Club to the list of their activities.

Press Club

The Mount Reflector, student publication, chronicles academic and social events in six editions yearly. The accent is on news. Featured this year was a student poll held during the election in which the students chose Eisenhower 2-1. Editorials covered a wide range of topics of personal, religious or political significance; prominent space was devoted to student government, liturgical life, and a resume of the State of Our Union. Among new angles of student interest introduced this year were the Listening Halls column highlighting daily student doings and a spotlight feature on hospital life seen through the eyes of student technologists. Reporters not only receive an experience in journalism, but also develop a clear, concise style of writing prose. The Reflector's inclusive coverage of events arouses and stimulates school spirit and influences student opinion along constructive lines.

Secretarial Club

The Secretarial Club, which is composed of the students in the commercial department, provides an immense store of practical information for future medical and general secretaries. During the year field trips are occasionally arranged and this year all the intricacies of a mimeograph machine were demonstrated on one such venture. Because it is believed that experience is the best teacher, the club features talks by members who have worked during the summer months in the secretarial field. This year in order to encourage the girls to continue their college careers, Seniors who, after completing the two-year commercial course, transferred to the Liberal Arts, spoke to the members and answered pertinent questions on the pros and cons of the secretarial course and the advantages of continuing two more years in college. Also on the agenda this year was a movie on "Better Typing" which demonstrated the proper techniques necessary for speed and accuracy in typing.

Mercedian Staff

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The Mercedian Staff of 1953 wishes to express its deep appreciation to the student body for their cooperation in the production of the Mercedian for without their aid, financially and otherwise, we could not have published this yearbook. In particular we wish to thank those who have submitted write-ups and those who have perseveringly executed the fine art work. We especially wish to extend our wholehearted gratitude to Sister M. Baptist because without her encouragement and assistance we would have been lost. May this yearbook of the Class of 1953 prove a worthy representative of our beloved Alma Mater.

Joan Davis, Ballet Soloist with the Glee Club.

Glee Club

One of the most active clubs on the campus is the Glee Club. It promotes choral singing in the college and gives enjoyment to all who participate. This year a joint concert was given with the Loyola College Glee Club. Included on the program were "The Hallaljah Chorus," "America the Beautiful," and "Morning" which were rendered very beautifully by the combined clubs. The Mount choral group, directed by Mr. Robert Lansinger and accompanied by Mr. Leroy Evans, offered "A Tribute to Romberg," "The Donkey's Sernade," and "Waters Ripple and Flow". The Loyola Club sang specialities of its own. A special feature on the program was a trio of Mount girls singing "May Day Carol" and "Lavender Blue". Early in May the Mount Glee Club journeyed to Loyola College for a return engagement. This event marked the close of a very successful season of song.

Dramatics Club

The Mount Saint Agnes College Dramatics Club, known locally as the Mount Thespians, aims to discover latent acting ability and to give it, as well as talent already recognized, an opportunity of proving itself before audiences on the stage, television and radio. This year members of the Club, together with Loyola College students, presented Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer". Starring in this, the major production of the year, were Sophomore students. "The Lady of Estragon," penned by John Henry Lawton, dramatics teacher and coach, made its appearance in November with Freshmen assuming the roles. In March English players under the direction of Clare Tree Major presented Shakespeare's "Henry the Eighth". The poise and confidence acquired by the students as a result of this dramatic training is outstanding and worth all of the labor and effort poured into the Club's ventures.

Athletic Association

Sports at Mount Saint Agnes are incorporated in an Athletic Association which aims to promote school spirit and good sportsmanship. Features of its program this year were varsity hockey in the fall, basketball in the winter, and softball, tennis and swimming in the spring. The varsity basketball team enjoyed a victorious season suffering only one defeat. Of more widespread interest than varsity were the class games in basketball which provided the girls with hours of pleasure and mirth. The Seniors, although outnumbered and out of practice, managed to hold their own and create interesting games. The Athletic Association also sponsored ping-pong, archery, and badminton tournaments. Socially our Athletes sponsored the Harvest Barn Dance in the gymnasium and the Athletic Banquet at the Stafford Hotel. At this banquet individual and class achievements were cited and the Hunt Cup, a most coveted award, was presented to the Sophomore Class. The outstanding athlete of the year was Senior Geraldine Dobrzykowski, President of the A. A. this 1952-53 season.
